

Make way Music are now taking bookings for

AN EVENING WITH GRAHAM KENDRICK

Songs rich with story and glory,
from his acoustic roots to worship
classics and new compositions

An Evening with Graham Kendrick concert (Autumn 2024/early 2025)

An Advent Evening with Graham Kendrick concert (late November/early December 2024)

An Easter Evening with Graham Kendrick concert (March/April 2025)

An Evening with Graham Kendrick has been a successful and popular event for many years and has now returned with a new musical line-up, and a format that can be adapted seasonally. It brings together sung worship, using many of Graham's 'classic' worship songs, plus a taste of some new ones, with 'concert' segments featuring several of his well-loved performance songs. Graham weaves it all together with personal glimpses behind the meaning and origin of the songs.

Harp Guitarist Jason Carter is one of several outstanding players who have been musically underpinning this essentially acoustic line-up.

In addition, Graham can draw in one or more of such outstanding players as David Fitzgerald (saxes, flutes, and whistles), Terl Bryant (percussion), Natasha Petrovic (violin and voice) and others, depending on the scale of the event.

Make Way Music is pleased to be able to offer these events to churches and organisations who have suitable buildings, event-management experience, and the vision to fill it for an evening of worship and inspiration around songs of depth and content. The building is the only upper limit for the size of audience, the minimum economically viable size being around 150. Local organisers generally cover costs through ticket sales.

Musicians

An Evening with Graham Kendrick can have a number of musicians depending on the event, venue and budget available. A minimum set up would be Graham and Jason Carter.

Jason Carter

Jason began playing the classical guitar when he was 9 and discovered the harp guitar in 2007. He has a passion for intercultural dialogue, having performed in over 100 countries in total and recorded 18 albums.

Natasha Petrovic

Natasha Petrovic is an accomplished violinist and graduate from the Yehudi Menuhin school. She has performed across Europe, including solo, chamber and orchestral recitals and had a passion for working across genres, including recording with various artists and touring for charitable causes.

David Fitzgerald

David is a highly accomplished and versatile saxophone, flute, and whistles player. His career has combined performing, composing & teaching as well as being something of a journey through a wide variety of musical environments and genres. He was a founder of the acclaimed Celtic band Iona.

Terl Bryant

Terl is a successful session drummer and percussionist and has been playing for Graham since 1987. He has recorded 5 albums with Celtic band Iona, and has toured with the likes of John Paul Jones, Barbara Dickson, Steve Taylor and Martin Barre.

Steve Thompson

Steve is a multi-instrumentalist, record producer, composer and arranger, and he has been Graham's Musical Director for over 35 years. He worked extensively with Graham and many other artists and worship leaders worldwide including Michael Bolton, Gloria Gaynor, Martin Smith, and Paul Baloche,

Barnabas Shaw

Barnabas is a music producer, songwriter and multi-instrumentalist. With over 15 years of experience of working in the music industry, he produced Graham's most recent album and has been playing guitar, bass and keyboards for Graham for the last 2 years.
